* Transition Period: There is a transition period for the Uniform Code only. The transition period for the Uniform Code begins on September 29, 2010 and ends on December 27, 2010. During that period, a regulated party can show compliance with the 2007 version of the Uniform Code or the new 2010 version of the Uniform Code. A regulated party cannot choose some provisions from the 2007 version of the Uniform Code and other provisions from the 2010 version of the Uniform Code to show compliance.

The new (2010) version of the Energy Code becomes effective on December 28, 2010. There is no transition period for the Energy Code. The current (2007) version of the Energy Code remains in effect through December 27, 2010.

Additional information will be available shortly on the NYS Codes Division website.
